It's 132 steps to the top of the hill . . .

where Thomas Carr Howe High School stands, vitalized by some 1,950 teenagers who climb those steps. Each day we Howeites in some way put our best foot forward, whether into a serious situation or into one of sheer enjoyment. In classes we put our best foot forward to attain better than satisfactory grades so that we can gain skills or basic knowledge to aid us in living. Real footwork is the requirement for pleasure at Howe dances throughout the year. Trying out old ballet slippers or tap shoes foretells the coming of the Pleasant Run Revue. The football player steps up for the opening kick-off; the sprinter places his toe at the line. We find that as we work together at school we learn to appreciate friendships we make. Thus we Howeites can be seen in . . .

WITH OUR BEST FOOT FORWARD

"Howdy! How've ya been?" Howe's newly paved student parking lot becomes the center of activity before and after school as Howeites clamber in and out of their bombs.

"How do you like my new shawl-collared sweater?" Dick Whitaker asks Bob Alexander and Wally Miner. Boys' sweaters appeared in a variety of styles this year.

"The long to the short of it!" Sporting hair-dos from pixie to pageboy to French twist are Marcia Townsend, Shelly Norton, Lynn Ann Phillips, and Jane Carson.

New fads, styles, friends, add pleasure

Carol, a really sweet gal. I enjoyed knowing these past few years. Haven't we had a hall in English this year? Hope

"Should I wear my saddles, tennis shoes, boots, flats, or penny loafers today?" Howe girls always seem to find a variety of ways in which to "put their best foot forward."

Bob Lang proves that chivalry isn't dead as he opens the door for Jane Merriman, John Hemmer, Nancy Brittain and Bob Warren upon their arrival at school.

In Howe history 1960 will be remembered as the year that the inbound track of the Pennsylvania Railroad was removed; now we have the vibrating rumble of only the outbound trains to remind us of the P. R. R. For motorists the big improvement on the campus was the paving of the parking lot last summer.

March snow storms, the worst for Indianapolis in fifteen years, only slowed down Howe students. When snowfall was extremely heavy, we had a surprise one-day vacation.

As the year progressed, colorful fads added new make-up to the old scene. Shoe styles blossomed out in a variety of old standards and wild extremes. Sweaters of every description brightened the Howe halls. Beatnikism had its influence with dark colors, leotards, bongo drums, yoga, and "beat talk."

In everyday life—bustling to school, shuffling in the halls, standing in the cafeteria line, and casually walking home—we were active, working, laughing teenagers.

and help us go ahead in school life . . .

Carol, a very very sweet girl whom I'd like to know better, even if you do give my vocal cords an inferiority complex. Luck always. Ellen Hill

Tradition builds special history

Preceded by flower girl Michele Staton and crown bearer Richard Wood, Queen Betty Hart approaches Howe.

In keeping with Howe's oldest tradition the student body welcomed the Violet Queen and her attendants at Howe's twenty-first birthday celebration. Legend has it that a Queen of Violets held court on Violet Hill before the school was constructed. Every year in May the Queen returns to see if the student body has upheld her charge of trust.

Pat Smith, president of the Student Council, officially greeted the royal court; and Philosopher Steve Spaulding crowned the Queen with violets. From her throne on the hill, Queen Betty watched the girls' physical education classes present the traditional May Pole dance and other folk dances; and the choir sang songs dedicated to the Queen. These groups closed their program with a special tribute to the Queen by the Violet Dancers.

The Philosopher reported on Howe's progress during the past year and the Queen renewed her charge of trust. To the words of the "Song of Farewell," the court left Violet Hill until Howe's next birthday.

Senior Hi-Y members selected the Philosopher; and the Vihota Club selected the Violet Queen candidates from its membership of junior girls. The entire student body then voted for the Queen.

Girls in pastel formals weave gaily colored ribbons in intricate patterns established by the Old English May Pole dances. To perfect the folk dances to be performed for the Violet Queen and her royal court, the girls practiced long weeks during their physical education classes.

and gives meaning to school life

One of the newer traditions at Howe is the annual fun night sponsored by the P.T.A.; this year a Hawaiian Holiday was held on April 1. The evening featured food, games, a style show, and a talent show, all based on the theme.

Tradition touches almost every part of Howe school life. Swimming pool tickets, elevator passes, and other freshman paraphernalia fill the school every September. Well-loved Christmas traditions: the large blue star adorning the tower, Christmas decor around school, and the annual Christmas community sing are familiar to us all. The end of the year is filled with tradition concerning Honors Day, graduation and other end-of-the-year activities. In June the autograph party sponsored by the HILLTOPPER staff provides a time and a place to record the memorable words of friends in the newly distributed year-books.

Daily home room announcements over the P.A., assemblies, locker talk, theme-tablet decorations, standing in the bookstore lines, and waving to Elmer are a few of the everyday things that make this school special to all Howeites.

Although it caused the postponement of the Hawaiian Luau, the March snow created a beautiful campus scene.

"Will you sign my HILLTOPPER?" Katha Patterson asks Gary Steinhauer. Each June many Howeites get writers' cramp at the Autograph Party sponsored by the yearbook staff.

Dances provide Howeites with music,

"Brown Boy and Golden Girl for 1959 are Jim Hower and Sandra Jones," announced Principal Thomas Stirling.

Ranging from casual to formal, Howe dances are always well-supported and much enjoyed. Efforts of the HILLTOPPER staff produced the biggest fall dance, the Brown and Gold. At this year's dance, 900 Howeites and guests helped initiate the crystal ball, gift of the class of '59. The ball showered multi-colored lights on the dance floor and glittering blue skyline, creating the effect of a beautiful city at night. After a tense wait, Principal Thomas Stirling announced the reign of Sandra Jones and Jim Hower as Golden Girl and Brown Boy.

Howeites' spring calendar held two more all-school dances. In March Senior Hi-Y sponsored its annual Sweetheart Dance and crowned its Sweetheart before excited Howeites. Couples danced "Under the Sea" among colorful fish and sea horses at the HILLTOPPER's 1959 spring dance, the "Turnabout Twirl," when girls paid all expenses. Juniors created a beautiful "Evening in Paris" for guests and members of the class of 1960, and the Indiana Roof lent its atmosphere to a memorable Prom for Seniors of 1959.

Candidates for Brown Boy and Golden Girl were Pete Henshaw, Charlene Mundy, Sandra Jones, Jim Hower, John Townsend, Cynthia Barnett, Sally Miller, and Mike McDonald.

night life, and glittering memories

The high point of the 1959 Junior Prom was the crowning of King Charlie Adkins and Queen Judy Hines. Ballooning for the candidates was done during the dance.

Candidates for Hi-Y Sweetheart were Midge Austin, Jellen Reynolds, Pat Partington, and Jane Merriman. Janet Campbell reigned at the annual Sweetheart Dance.

Under the stars and clouds at the Indiana Roof, the 1959 graduating class swayed to the strains of Vic Knight's Band. The Senior Prom was a fitting climax for four years of hard work and high enjoyment in high school.

Gals looted all expenses for their guys at the Turnabout Twirl and even made corsages! Winners of the corsage contest were Chester Crump, Anne Holy, Betty Harryman, Dave Konold, Nancy Edwards, and Pat Booher.

Outstanding Howeites attain fame

Chosen by students and faculty, Suzan White was Altrusa Award winner and Emily Cronau, DAR Good Citizen.

Increasing competition and a demand for better quality have placed emphasis on higher educational standards. Students outstanding in various phases of school work are receiving more recognition, and the students themselves are putting forth greater efforts towards the pursuit of excellence. Contest prizes, awards, and scholarships add extra incentive for the hard work involved in the learning process.

The Irvington Post of the American Legion honored Jim Surface and Rita Biddle for good citizenship. Jim, also the United Nations representative, traveled to New York to gain a better idea of the UN in action. DAR good citizen, Emily Cronau, and Altrusa Award winner, Suzan White, were recognized for excellence in leadership, scholarship, citizenship, and service.

Among the various scholarships available to seniors, the National Merit Scholarships are one of the largest, most widely known programs.

Janice Meyer, Rita Biddle, Mike McDonald, Renee Wise, and Karen Kish represented Howe at summer institutes throughout the mid-West where each won several awards.

and prestige for themselves and Howe

This year three Howeites were semifinalists, while ten others received Letters of Commendation for their performances on the scholarship test.

Last summer some students spent time in studying. Jeanne Renee Wise won the award for outstanding dramatic performance at the Northwestern University Dramatics Workshop; Janice Meyer attended the Northwestern Journalism Workshop. Of the 13 people who attended the Indiana University Journalism Institute, ten attained honors.

Linda Rethmeyer was one of eleven winners in Indiana in the English contest sponsored by the National Council of Teachers of English. Carol Vance succeeded in winning the Howe Betty Crocker Homemaking Award; Carolyn Utigard won first place in Scholastic Arts for fashion designing.

State Achievement Contests, music competition, essay contests, speech contests, debates, and science projects are only a few of the areas in which we work to advance . . . .

National Merit Scholarship semifinalists John Smith, Tom Mabel, and Dave Bradbury bone up for the final test.

Annually on Honors Day the Irvington Post of the American Legion presents its award for good citizenship to a junior boy and girl. Based on their demonstrations of outstanding scholarship, leadership, and citizenship, Rita Biddle and Jim Surface, 1960 graduates, were nominated for the awards by the student body and chosen by the faculty. Jim also served as Howe's representative to visit the United Nations this fall. After his return, Jim spoke to an all-school assembly and to various community groups concerning the work carried on by the UN.

WITH OUR BEST FOOT FORWARD

Once again mock election time brought wild promises of roller skates to prevent tardiness to class and tales of alternating the Kingston Trio with Dave Brubeck in the lunch periods. Limited to the social studies classes, the two-week election unit covers local and state elections, and gives students increased knowledge of political party activities. "Prospective politicians" study a booklet and put the lessons into practice. After party caucuses the social studies rooms are papered with posters and slogans.

At party conventions (the favorite activity of the election) fantastic campaign promises were concocted and party candidates selected. When the returns were counted, Federalists had swept state, county, and city offices for the fourth consecutive year in the 20 years the election has been staged at Howe.

Federalist Sharon Huff leads her party in selecting their candidates for the Howe state election. This same morning Nationalists held their state convention.

Elections, events, and economics provide

Eager to see the election outcome, party officials Sandy McMullen, Bob Lang, and Judy Shaner tally the returns of the voting machine.

"Nationalists will get you next year," secretary of state Charlie Adkins assures Federalist governor Tom Johnston.

Jr. Town Meeting panelists Leonard, McGillem, Roe, and Campbell listen closely to arguments of speaker Smartz.

Bob Squires tries to entice prospective "investors" Bob Briles and Marty Ragsdale with information about stocks.

diverse topics for social studies classes

Part of the Social Studies Department, the social science classes, psychology, sociology, and family relations, study human behavior. Howites in these classes find the personality tests and sociological surveys helpful in understanding human behavior. At the end of the semester each student selects a phase of the social science he would like to learn more about and writes a term paper on that subject.

Studying the development of world history is the course of study in the department open to freshmen. A two semester study of United States history is a required course in the program of juniors. Students showing special aptitude are recommended to an advanced class in the second semester.

Howites look forward to their final semester of study in the Social Studies Department because each student studying economic problems receives a mythical $1,000 to invest in stocks. In this same course, pupils write a report on a famous industrialist.

Social studies students prepare discussions for Junior Town Meeting, a local radio broadcast.

Each year the Lilly Endowment Fund awards a $1,000 scholarship to the social studies major of each city high school who submits the best paper on a social studies theme.

While studying foreign nations, Linda Harrison, Steve Edwards, and Andrea Huggins examine Japanese souvenirs.

Extensive English courses and addition

Making good use of the newly installed language laboratory, Spanish students practice correct pronunciation.

In three years of required English courses Howeites study grammar, composition, spelling, and literature. Most pupils elect the final year of English: a study of English literature and an intensive grammar review. Reading lab, usually taken in the freshman year, strives to increase the student's reading comprehension and speed through use of special machines. Sophomores and juniors in English conduct research on vocations while senior students complete a more formal research theme.

Each semester of English has a "G" class, which covers the same subject matter as regular courses and also provides time for deeper study and discussion.

During Book Week Howeites review fiction books and each class collects money to purchase new books of their choosing for the school library.

Additional courses offered by the English Department, speech and library practice, are often elected.

Each year many Howeites enrolled in English courses return with prizes and honor from competitions, given on both local and national levels, testing various English skills.

Student librarian Phyllis Tisdale, at the desk, checks out a book from the school library for Phil Wilson.

of foreign language lab fill modern needs

Latest addition to Howe's teaching facilities is the newly installed language lab. This modern teacher's aid is one of four in the city high schools. Equipped with twenty-eight soundproof booths, the unit is controlled by the teacher using a console in the front of the lab. This permits language students to practice and to acquire improved pronunciation without interrupting class functions.

To keep language study interesting, other devices such as films, slides, demonstrations, and reports are used. While studying courses in an active department, many language students enter contests testing their knowledge of Latin, Spanish, or French. Among other activities, a visitor from Cuba, Señor Rafael de Armas, talked with the Spanish classes about the Cuban Revolution and other timely topics.

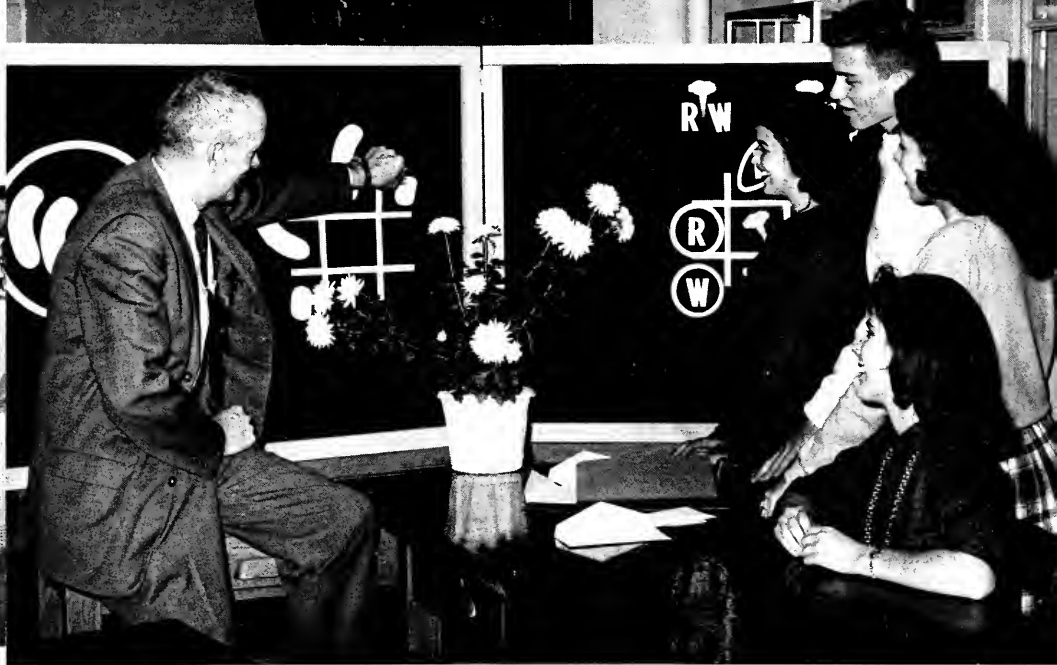

Late in the year, Latin Club members plan their annual activity. Last spring the group sponsored a Roman Banquet intended to create interest in Roman customs. Students, dressed in togas, represented famous Roman personalities and gods.

Greeting his guests, Fred Shick, dressed as Apollo, addresses Latin Club members attending Roman Banquet.

While describing her recent trip to Mexico, Midge Austin displays some collected souvenirs to classmates Stanley Keeler, Bob Briles, Carolyn Smith, and Marsha Crockett.

Using his award-winning flannel board, Mr. Merle Wimmer illustrates a factor of heredity for biology students Donna Loudermilk, Tom White, Dotty Leffler, Joyce Kockritz.

Math and science reveal that today's

Studying technical equipment used in senior science, physics enthusiasts Lynda Bell, Terry Mueller, and Tom Mabel examine the oscilloscope's indication of current change.

After Sputnik opened the Space Age, educators began a stepped-up requirement program in both math and science and this policy is still progressing.

Freshmen take a general science course and then they may enroll in the more specialized sciences offered: biology, chemistry, and physics. Each fall semester is marked by biology students rushing around hunting insects and the spring semester by these same students searching for leaves.

Future chemists don't really mind the smells that come from test tubes because this may be the experiment that will teach them to recognize rotten eggs.

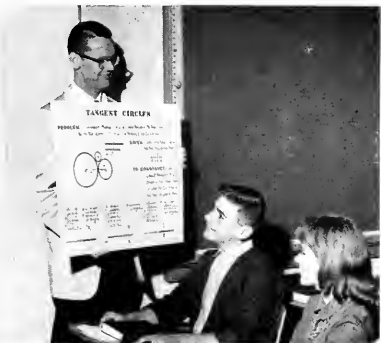

On the receiving end of electric shocks and showers of water, physics students often learn their facts the hard way. In both advanced sciences, Howeites find their study of mathematics invaluable.

All Howeites visit the east wing math classrooms during their two years of required math study, and those who are college bound elect trigonometry, college algebra, calculus, or analytical geometry. Some Howeites studying math devote extra hours annually to prepare for the regional and state math contests. Combining teachers' guidance and personal effort, these students bring many honors to Howe.

In analytical chemistry Mike Simmons and Lana Pars'ey learn they must weigh all ingredients and equipment.

theories may become facts of tomorrow

Courses aid students in development

Cadet teacher Marty Richards watches a second grader put finishing touches on a miniature of our community.

Gilda Gray, Nancy Merriman, and Karen Swihart further develop their shorthand ability by taking dictation.

Lots of hard work went into making their pie exactly according to the recipe and as Nancy Irvin and Catherine Turner remove it from the oven, they look forward to testing the taste of dessert.

of mental and physical coordination

Laboratory courses offered to Howeites give them an opportunity to practice skills that may one day become part of their life. Boys studying courses in the Industrial Arts Department learn the fundamentals of such trades as printing, carpentry, metal work, and draftsmanship. These shops often help other departments by repairing items or printing programs.

Domestically minded girls enroll in courses offered in home economics. Advanced students in cooking classes prepare a noon meal for teachers and the administrative staff to display their kitchen talents. Many Easter dresses come from the sewing classes and future nurses may get their start in home nursing. In home management class, girls learn principles they can apply in managing their own home.

Howeites who may be future teachers enjoy the close contact and experience with youngsters they get while serving as cadet teachers in grade schools. Some of these cadets spend their daily double period in a high school class, instead.

To business students, the Business Education Department offers a wide curriculum. Some students take only basic typing and shorthand courses to speed their homework and note taking, while others find they have definite business aptitude and elect additional courses. All these classes help students prepare for their future.

Nancy Hills takes time out from her own work to help Marcia Buckley adjust her dress pattern before a fitting.

Competing for awards, Janet Berger, Pat VanSell, and Jane Platte work hard to improve their typing speeds.

Denny Holmes pauses to re-ink his compass while finishing his drafting project, the blueprint of his dream home.

Practical lab courses help Howeites

Stretching to touch their toes, gym students find the exercise strenuous but slenderizing. Every Howeite is required to have at least one year of accredited physical education before graduation.

All Howeites graduate with a least one year of physical education to their credit. Many elect more semesters and those with physical aptitude are recommended for advanced classes which participate in sports, such as archery, that require more skill. Boys and girls classes join to practice square dancing and ballroom dancing.

Driver's education cars used by Howeites receive surprisingly few wrinkled fenders. One semester of studying the driver training book is required and many brave the hazards of an additional course of actual driving experience. This behind-the-wheel practice has been proved to produce better teenage drivers.

Entering their classroom, health students are often startled by a large model of the human eye. This and other models like it are of great help to teachers for the study of body structure.

This course covers both physical and mental health to give Howeites a basic understanding. The classes often hear speakers from local health agencies such as the Marion County Mental Health Association.

Sandy Mitchell and Beverly Shad practice their first aid principles in patching up classmate Bob Alexander.

prepare for future careers and homes

Glass-covered bulletin boards on the main floor always hold several outstanding pictures done by gifted art students; and on the lower floor, a show case displays work from the hands of jewelry and sculpture students. Winning entries of national scholastic competitions are an annual display in that case.

Craft arts serve as an introduction to the Art Department courses after which interested Howe-ites elect a course dealing with a specific branch of art study.

Students who like to develop an object from raw material with their hands may elect classes in jewelry, plastics, or sculpturing.

Others work in crayon, paints, or ink on paper or canvas, and students who have interests in even more specific art fields may enroll in fashion drawing or lettering.

Musically minded freshman students may elect boys or girls glee clubs. From these groups, the directors select members of performing music organizations.

The Boys Glee Club was host to glee clubs of other city high schools for a combined program.

Howe's two-band system gives members an opportunity to gain practical experience in the B-Band before they are recommended to positions in the performing A-Band.

Finishing her ring with a set of natural stones, jewelry student Lynn Silvey files off the remaining rough edges.

Katha Patterson and Diane Carrington demonstrate for glee club an exercise to develop breath control.

Scholastic Arts Award winner, Carolyn Utigard, touches up water-color paint on her blue-ribbon fashion drawing.

Revue troubles and rehearsals build to

Hard work and limitless cooperation make up the PRR, which holds two performances every year. The Revue is written, staged, and acted entirely by the students.

Dutch girls and boys set the scene in Garden Gaiety by singing "In an Old Dutch Garden."

Sweet William, Dick Whitaker, tries to overwhelm his fair flower, Daisy, Mariann Goodwin, with his singing of "A Bicycle Built for Two."

"Swingin' Man!" Gone beatniks Renee Wise and Larry Brown "swing" in Mania while onlookers try to be "way out."

Bob Warren, Jim Surface, Steve Deal, and Bill Sharp portray bathing beauties along Atlantic Avenue in Musical Monopoly.

Horrible Harry, Dan Graves, and Mr. Dillon, Tim Witsman, almost come to blows over who can outdo the other as they sing "I Can Do Anything Better Than You."

triumphs

Merry Marketing finds a confused shopper, Susan Schmidt, trying desperately to hunt bananas. Clerks Chris Miller, Ron Banta, Ed Diehl, and Ron West reply, "Yes, We Have No Bananas."

Janet Fields sings of short-nin' bread as her fiendish little pride and joy, Mary Kay Little, tugs at her dress.

Cadaver-carriers Donna Walter, Judy Harsin, and Janet Van Sandt portray "Casey's Cavalcade of Mournful Melodies."

"Chorus girls" Wes Thompson, Steve Switzer, Dick Woodbury, and Gary Wallace kick high to show off their "curves" in Alphabet Antics.

"Rock-n-Rollers" Judy Deeter, Karen Stoelting, Pam Butler, and Sharon Miner play leap frog while Nancy Stewart supervises the "ABC Boogie."

Chipmunks Judy Craig, Jane Carson, and Betty Hart look contented, but they cause all kinds of mischief during their intermission act.

As the closing chorus sings "The Revue Is Over," the 1959 PRR ends.

Preparing for Federal Inspection, the R.O.T.C. sponsors Rita Biddle, Dotty Shake, Lydia Hildreth, Nancy Bowman, and Midge Austin brush up on their study of army weapons.

R. O. T. C. program gives Howe cadets

Under the direction of Commandant M/Sgt. James Grandy and instructor Sgt. William Step-toe, the R.O.T.C. cadets learn to prepare themselves for their term in the armed forces after graduation. The military program, enforced by principles of discipline, not only helps the cadets to realize the importance of respect, cooperation, and dependability, but also promotes a feeling of esprit de corps among the unit. Polished shoes and brass are signs which mark inspection day conducted by cadet sponsors Lydia Hildreth, Rita Biddle, Midge Austin, Dotty Shake and Nancy Bowman. To test the cadets properly, the girls themselves must know military details ranging from the nomenclature of the M-1 rifle to the complete chain of command.

Battle Group Commander Major Chuck Caldwell presided over officers' meetings at which the annual Military Ball was a major topic of discussion. Assisted by the sergeants, the sponsors and cadets turned the gym into a ballroom for the evening of March 12. Sponsors were queen candidates, and Honorary Cadet Major Lydia Hildreth was crowned queen of the evening.

Sgt. Schmidt and Capt. Hoisington award Superior Junior Cadet 1st year honors to Cadet Cpt. Charles Fewell and the VFW medal to Cadet Major Charles Caldwell at Federal Inspection, May, 1959.

In 1959-60 the boys' rifle team brought several outstanding honors to the Howe R.O.T.C. unit. The team took first place award in the city meet and ranked among the top 30 squads in the entire Fifth Army Division. A .22 caliber rifle is the weapon with which the boys practiced their firing on the range. Although the girls' rifle team, sponsored by Miss Dorothea Kirk, had little opportunity for competition, the girls improved their knowledge and use of weapons by firing on the range each Thursday after school.

The boys' and girls' drill teams represented the R.O.T.C. corps at several school and civic functions. Captain Lynn Ann Phillips and co-captain Jane Platte called out commands to the girls' drill team as they practiced in the gym every Tuesday and Thursday morning at 7:30. These quick stepping girls entertained at football and basketball games throughout the year. They also had the opportunity of marching in various downtown parades such as the Armed Forces Day parade and the Veterans Day parade.

For its command performance in the Veterans Day parade, the Battle Group received a 50-star flag. At the Fifth Federal Inspection in the spring of 1959, the unit won an honorable rating.

After the opening number, Finlandia, by the Philharmonic Orchestra conducted by Mr. Michael Bowles, the Howe Choir, under the direction of Mr. Frank Watkins, sang four a cappella selections. The orchestra and choir combined on Hallelujah from Mount of Olives and The Last Words of David. Prologue in Heaven from Mefistofele, with Mr. William Kennedy as soloist, climaxed the evening's performance.

First period every morning the Howe Choir is hard at work rehearsing for one of its many engagements. It is difficult to believe that these people dressed in ordinary school clothes are the same songsters who, garbed in their brown robes and gold stoles, add a touch of formality to various occasions. Various select music organizations at Howe provide entertainment at many school and community functions. Choralaires, an all-girl choral unit, is directed by Mr. Frank Watkins. The group has sung for the radio program, "Young America Sings," the all-city Girls' Glee Club Festival at Shortridge, and for several women's clubs.

Singing in an atmosphere of 15th and 16th century England, the Madrigal Singers provide many groups with their a cappella renditions. Madrigals are directed by Mr. William Roberts.

Boys' and Girls' Octets perform for local P.-T.A. meetings, for church activities, for assemblies and for radio programs. The octets specialize in singing semi-classical music.

Howe's Dance Band has a very busy schedule. The band, directed by Mr. Louis McEnderfer, plays for assemblies, the Winter Wonderland Dance, and for the annual PRR.

Orchestra and band claim majority

This group of instrumental performers devotes long hours of practice to prepare for each performance. Under the direction of Mr. Constantine N. Poulimas, the Howe orchestra offers service and pleasure through its participation at school functions, including student plays, the annual Christmas sing, and Senior Vespers. Climaxing the orchestra's activities is the formal May concert held for the benefit of the entire community. The string class, a preparation division for beginning string players, feeds into the orchestra. This year, the Howe orchestra proudly claims a majority membership in the Indianapolis High School Symphony.

membership in city organizations

Flashiness, fervor, and the blare of brass are combining symbols which mark the Howe band. Members of the band lend faithful support between halves at football and basketball games, assemblies, R.O.T.C. Federal Inspection, and commencement. Under the direction of Mr. Louis McEnderfer, the active unit brings fine representation to Howe through its participation in community affairs and downtown parades. Out of all city high schools, the Howe band boasts a majority membership of 27 in the All-City Band. The B band, a secondary unit, provides fundamental training for beginners.

TOWER provides reading enjoyment

Room 240 bustles after school when the HOWE TOWER staff combines jokes and laughter with long hours of hard work to meet the deadline for Howe's bi-weekly newspaper. Reporters frequently scurry around the halls of Howe in efforts to gather up interesting bits of news and to check facts on their stories.

The staff produces the TOWER according to four basic steps. On the same day the paper is distributed in homeroom, assignments for the next issue are posted. During the next few days, eager reporters conduct a series of interviews with teachers and students. Copy readers must carefully check all stories and write headlines before sending them to the printer. Galley proofs are returned from the printer, read for corrections, and cut and pasted into page layouts. The proofreaders make a second check for errors on the page proofs and corrections are phoned to the printer; then the cycle begins again.

Eleven members of the TOWER staff attended summer sessions of the Indiana University High School Journalism Institute. Editor-in-chief, Mike McDonald, won first place for his editor's brief. Named alternate for the Ernie Pyle Scholarship, Rita Biddle, news editor, reaped first places for a news story published in the Indiana Daily Student and for overall performance in editing. Janie Shick, now editorial editor, won the award for outstanding performance in business management. An interview gained first place for Lynda Bell, feature editor. News Bureau head, Diane Hawke, received the first place award in radio writing and presentation. Bonnie Jo Burk won first place for an interview in advanced news writing and won the best all-around performance award in radio-TV-news bureau. Other TOWER representatives who won honorable mentions and awards are Shirley Applegate, Leslie Freeman, Betty Harryman, Klaska Haugh, and Fred Shick.

Each spring a new staff is chosen by the retiring staff and adviser Miss Carolyn Holder.

Managing editor Janice L. Meyer and editor-in-chief Mike McDonald join the HOWE TOWER adviser Miss Carolyn Holder to edit copy and to plan layouts for the next issue of the bi-weekly newspaper. Last summer Mike and Janice learned many new and interesting techniques for their paper. Janice studied journalistic writing and contemporary affairs at the Journalism Institute at Northwestern University. Mike attended the High School Journalism Institute at Indiana University.

Hilltopper workers slave to conquer

Sports editor Pat McKee tries a "high jump" over the Hilltopper office wall for copy editor Sharon Youngling.

"Today is the deadline!" When that statement is cried out in HILLTOPPER, everyone knows that copy, headlines, pictures, idents and captions must be in. It is not unusual to peer in Room 240 at 5 p.m. and see various editors frantically typing away and proportioning pictures.

Editor-in-chief Emily and associate editor Karen wracked their brains trying to supervise every detail that went into the HILLTOPPER.

Senior editors type up the four-year activities lists while the copy editor is inspired with all kinds of ideas for copy. Activities editors and club editors sometimes look in each other's folders because of a mix-up over who covers what. While underclassmen editors mount pictures, index editors check the spelling of names. A glimpse of the photographer shows him taking a football shot while the sports editor thinks of a caption to go with it. As the staff is working away in the office, the business manager campaigns for buyers all over school.

"What, me worry?" Asst. editor Karen Kish, sponsor Mrs. Ellen Jenkins, and editor-in-chief Emily Cronau look for suggestions in MAD on layouts for the dummy.

Activities editor Deanna Callahan looks over copy as club editor Sue Dirks and activities editor Lydia Hil-dreth try to think of captions for their pictures.

mighty deadline

Mrs. Ellen Jenkins, the staff sponsor, also has to scrutinize every HILLTOPPER detail. Her never-failing quip to the staff is "Get started early!" All too soon, the staff realizes the truth of her statement. She is an understanding counselor to various members of the staff who are sometimes "snowed" with too much to do.

You never can tell about that HILLTOPPER staff! The day of the 1959 Turnabout Twirl, they were dripping water all over the gym trying to take poor little fish out of a bucket, because the theme of the dance was "Under the Sea." The Brown and Gold and Turnabout dances are two of the staff's money-raising projects.

The 1960 HILLTOPPER staff would like to express their thanks to Mr. Earl C. Loudermilk and his staff, photography; Mr. Richard Brier, the Capitol Engraving Company; Mr. P. M. Benefiel, Miles Press, Inc.; and Mr. Jack Bundy, S. K. Smith Cover Company, for their cooperation and helpful advice in producing the yearbook.

Senior editors Judy Craig and Brenda Halbrooks work hard trying to synchronize the varied activities lists of 419 seniors with their pictures.

Who takes the credit for those bumps and holes which vanished from the student parking lot? The Student Council, of course. Resurfacing of the lot was only one of many projects sponsored by the council, a group composed of one representative from each homeroom.

The council's annual clean-up campaign keeps the student body on the alert for any signs of messiness while their sale of brown and gold derbies adds to the excitement of Sectionals. Howeites also enjoyed post-ball game dances and the Faculty-Senior basketball game sponsored by the council. Entertainment is not neglected as the council plans and conducts their annual all-school talent assembly and helps the 9B's become acquainted at the Freshmen mixers.

Full Student Council meetings alternate weekly with those of the cabinet which is composed of officers and class representatives. Council president, Dan Graves, also serves as vice president of the Indianapolis City Student Council.

Sharon Maloy and Babara Diehl "brighten up" the cafeteria as they decorate the council's Christmas tree.

entertainment to grateful Howeites

Dick Woodbury adds a contribution to Cindy Sirmin's wastebasket in her quest for litter in the clean-up campaign. Jay Barrett also puts in his "two cents worth" of litter for the all-school campaign.

Dallene Francis and Larry Brown meet in Mrs. Loew's office to discuss preparations for the annual Senior-Faculty basketball game and to make arrangements for the after-game dance sponsored by the Student Council.

Prosecuting attorney Stanley Keeler cross-examines witness Diane Hawke, wife of the night janitor, as to exactly what did happen during the night of January 16th while Judge Heath (Dave Mabey) looks on with interest.

"One of us is lying, and we both know which one!" Defendant Betty Harryman's rivalry and hatred for her lover's wife, Midge Austin, comes to a boiling point as defense attorney Tim Witsman tries to restrain her.

"So you were going to murder him and get the $10,000,000 nobody knew about!" Prosecuting attorney Stanley Keeler accuses Bjorn Faulkner's supposed lover-killer, Betty Harryman, as judge Dave Mabey quietly observes.

FOOTLIGHT REVELERS was organized for those interested in acting and taking part in productions. Any student taking part in a production is considered a member of the dramatic club. Several members have the honor of belonging to the National Honorary Thespian Society. Officers this year were Renee Wise, president; Stanley Keeler, vice president; Jane Shick, secretary; and Fred Shick, treasurer.

The Revelers' climax of the year was "Night of January 16th," story of the murder trial of Karen Andre, accused slayer and secretary-lover of Bjorn Faulkner. He gave her his lavish penthouse apartment. The defense tried to prove that Faulkner killed himself, but it developed later that Faulkner's body may not have fallen from the penthouse since a body was found in the wreckage of a plane in a western valley. It was up to a jury of six men and six women chosen from the audience at the beginning of the play to determine the verdict of guilty or not guilty. The play was produced and directed by Mr. Bruce L. Beck. The stage crew also played an important part in the production.

"Will I be tapped?" This is a question that many juniors and seniors ask themselves at the all-school "tap" assembly where they are notified of their candidacy for the NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY. Juniors must be in the upper ten per cent of their class and seniors in the upper fifteen per cent to be eligible for membership.

Candidates officially become members at the formal initiation in which they receive pins and certificates and light the NHS torch. This torch symbolizes the light of learning and appears on the pins. Next day the initiates wear blue and gold NHS badges signifying their membership. Members are pledged to create an enthusiasm for scholarship, to stimulate a desire to render service, to promote worthy leadership, and to encourage the development of character.

NHS members help with Career Day and College Night and they explain to freshman classes the significance of basing their years at Howe on scholarship, service, leadership and character.

NHS officers prepare armbands for the annual tap assembly to announce new members. Shown are Jim Surface, Lynda Bell, Mr. Robert Turner and Sharon Caldwell.

During the year, the BETA HI-Y, a service club for freshman and sophomore boys, has various projects and activities to further its goal of maintaining "high standards of Christian character." Money earned from helping the Senior Hi-Y with after-game dances is donated to such projects as the World Service Organization and the mental hospital. Mr. George Van Dusen is the club sponsor.

Many junior and senior boys are active in SENIOR HI-Y. Again this year, they sponsored dances after basketball games to provide recreation for Howeites and to raise funds for their service projects. Projects which they support include gifts for patients at the mental hospital, toys for underprivileged children, and others. Delegates from our Hi-Y, and from other Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y clubs throughout Marion county, attend the Model United Nations, which is sponsored each spring by the Indianapolis YMCA. The highlight of the year is the Sweetheart Dance in the spring. Candidates for Hi-Y Sweetheart are chosen by the club members, while final choice is made by those who attend the dance. TRI-HI-Y, a club for junior and senior girls, has become one of the largest and most active clubs at Howe. They start off their year at Flatrock where plans are made for the Model UN which is held in the spring. New girls are initiated into the club in December in an impressive ceremony. Near St. Patrick's Day, a program is given on Ireland which is soon followed by an April Fools' Day program. Later in the spring, they have a Palm Sunday Breakfast. Throughout the year, there are swimming parties held at the Eastside Y.M.C.A. as well as joint meetings with the Hi-Y. Speakers and panel discussions give even more variety to the programs. The Model UN is the highlight of the year. Hi-Y members from Marion County recreate the UN as it is in New York. Near the end of the year, a Mother's Tea is given. This provides an opportunity for mothers and girls to have an afternoon getting better acquainted with each other's friends. New officers are elected and installed shortly before close of school. Sponsor is Mrs. Harlette Baker.

parties and fun to training for the future

SELOFRA, the freshman girls club, helps the girls to become acquainted with school and its activities. The girls strive, through their programs, to attain the qualities incorporated in the club name which are service, loyalty, and friendship. Initiation for Selofra is held early in the year. At this time, the girls are presented with green ribbons which denote their class. At a panel discussion in the fall several senior girls speak on how to be successful in high school. Selofra also works with the other girls' clubs on the Christmas Party. Then, at the change of semester, they give a party for incoming freshmen.

One of the biggest events of the spring is the style show, written and directed by the girls. In the show they model their own clothes, showing current styles for any occasion. Each year a beauty consultant gives a talk and demonstration on make-up and various hair styles. The advice on grooming proves very valuable. A panel of Beta Hi-Y boys give their opinion on the ideal date at one of the meetings. Club sponsor is Miss Ellen O'Drain.

Selofra officers Lissa Purdy, Myra Early, Jodi Dobbs, and Jill Vance look back on a year of fun and success.

Howe's student BUSINESS MANAGERS play a very important role in school activities. Business Managers have responsibilities for almost every extracurricular activity, such as PRR, plays, athletic events, and others. They spend one period a day in the senior office working on these activities. Their main duties are to keep financial records, to promote advertising, to usher, and to sell and take tickets to extracurricular events. Managers' jobs are divided among individual staffs. Current staff heads are Tom Mabel and Larry Whiteman. Mr. John Trinkle supervises the group.

Boys who work on the PUBLIC ADDRESS SYSTEM perform very important services for Howe. They maintain the equipment, supervise the daily broadcasts and operate the central sound system for all school activities and extracurricular events. Faculty sponsor of this group is Mr. Richard Hammond.

FUTURE BUSINESS LEADERS of America have been organized at Howe only two years but it has already become one of our most active clubs. Meetings this year have emphasized the place of business in modern life through films, speakers, and group discussions. This helps the members to prepare for work they plan to do after graduation. Several members attended the FBLA State Convention in April where they participated in the speech and spelling contests. Sponsor of this group is Miss Maryon Welch.

Members of the PHOTOGRAPHY CLUB learn techniques of the various phases of photography through speakers, demonstrations, and movies. They also have access to the school darkroom and all school picture developing equipment. One of the major activities this year was a photo contest judged by local photographers with winning pictures submitted to a national contest. Mr. Bruce Beck sponsors the club.

Howe girls develop interest in feminine

Home Economics Club officers Marjorie Sammis, Sue Price, and Marilyn Heavenridge discuss programs.

In preparation for their futures, the girls of the HOME ECONOMICS CLUB have devoted time this year to learning helpful hints for homemaking. At the meetings they enjoyed demonstrations in gift wrapping, fabric choice, beauty culture, and corsage making. The club is unique in that the girls tour the school, from boilerroom to tower each year. Miss Lois Coy, the club sponsor, feels that the members can benefit from both the instructional and social aspects of the organization.

Membership is open to any girl who has had at least one semester of a home economics course. As part of the club's program a welcome party for new homemakers is held at the beginning of each semester. An initiation ceremony is held later, and the girls are formally presented with their own ribbons and colors.

Beginning the year with an initiation ceremony the FUTURE NURSES got off to a wonderful start. Among the activities were speakers, films and parties. Mrs. Marilyn Gunderman spoke on "Nurses Training at Indiana Central College," at a special meeting. In other programs the girls were informed of the requirements and rewards in nursing as a profession.

This year, club pins were ordered by the members. The girls sold refreshments at two basketball games to aid financially with the project. Miss Celia Smith, the school nurse, is the club sponsor.

The JUNIOR RED CROSS CLUB, sponsored by Miss Sue Willits, has carried out many interesting monthly projects. Representatives of the group met with the city-wide Red Cross organization to plan cooperative activities. As part of their program, the girls made tray favors and place cards for hospitals.

Money was collected in homerooms and used to buy supplies for deprived families overseas.

Language and culture groups encourage

Sandy Leonard, Leslie Freeman, Margo Sullivan, and John Smith, officers of the Latin Club, inspect a model of an old Roman road. The club had several programs this year about the Romans, their language and way of life.

Highlighting the year for LATIN CLUB members was their chance to see Cupid as he made an appearance for their Valentine Party. With some of the group dressed in togas, sandals, and laurels, the gathering was very picturesque.

Club sponsor, Mrs. Vesta Cohee, encourages the study of Latin both as a background for good English and for historical value. The club had various programs dealing with the decline and fall of ancient Latin-speaking cultures and the romance and mythology of Latin.

With the color and custom of our South-American neighbors, the members of the SPANISH CLUB had a "piñata party" this year. The fiesta was in celebration of "Navidad," as the Spanish call Christmas. Mr. Raymond Hulse, club sponsor, feels that those who attend the meetings and special events benefit their oral Spanish very much, because no one is permitted to speak English. As another aid to the members, speakers from Spanish-speaking countries visited the meetings and lectured in their native tongue. Club programs also dealt with customs and history of the language and the people of Spain.

members in achieving skills, knowledge

Organized for those who like to play chess, the CHESS CLUB also helps students who want to improve their skill. The members had opportunity for both of these this year. They participated in inter-school tournaments and had leagues and various other competitive activities. Rivalry was keen within the organization for local recognition and honor. Mr. Robert Carr, sponsor of the club, feels that members can have the opportunity not only to enjoy themselves, but also to learn quality in the art of chess playing.

Traveling from Muncie to Lafayette to Columbus and back, has been only a fraction of the busy schedule kept by the FORENSIC CLUB members. Formerly the Speech Club, this year with the coming of a new sponsor, Mr. Robert Walker, the organization placed its membership in the National Forensic League.

Original, dramatic, and humorous oratory were basic parts of the members' activities. Solo speakers in these areas, along with the debate team (Midge Austin, Ed Diehl, Dave Maybe, and Mary Owen), entered both local and statewide tournament competition. All concerned were rewarded by the best season in the club's history.

SUBSET is the freshman math club and is sponsored by Mrs. Mary Smuck. "Mathematics can be fun," the members learned as they solved intriguing number problems and puzzles. If the students plan to major in math they can graduate to the Math Club in their sophomore year.

The HISTORY CLUB was sponsored by Miss Nancy Adams. Although the club started off strong the fall semester and had many interesting meetings and field trips, other outside activities of members interfered with the club so meetings were not held during the spring semester.

Sponsored by Mr. Robert Carr the MATH CLUB is designed for students majoring in mathematics or who are interested in this field. The club had many speakers this year, including Mr. R. G. Rudness of the Linde Company who lectured on and demonstrated synthetic gems. There have been films on a variety of science and math topics. Individual students prepared projects such as speaking on favorite math and science studies, working "brain teasing" math problems, and aiding the Math Department by making large graphs for classrooms. Club members also toured several industries.

One of the largest school service organizations is the AUDIO-VISUAL CLUB. By giving one period daily, club members are able to operate thirty-five sound projectors and to show more than one thousand films a year for classes. Each film may be shown about five times daily. On Honors Day in June, senior club members who have served five semesters receive a pin in recognition of their service. Other members receive Citations of Merit for their work in the club. Mr. William Smith is the sponsor.

With increased emphasis being placed on the training of more scientists, the SCIENCE CLUB does its part by encouraging students to take more science courses. Members also plan their programs to promote interest in all phases of science. This year the club toured the IBM office and WISH-TV. Program chairman, Jim McClure, arranged for such speakers as Dr. Thom Verhave, an animal psychologist, and Dr. W. Rogers, a hypnotist. At some meetings members presented their own projects to the club. Some members attended a meeting at Washington High School conducted by the Union Carbide Co. on gems. City-county scoring champion, Darlan Billups, was unsuccessful in his second try for a Hornet score against the invincible line of the Washington Continentals.

Rain dampened the Homecoming crowd but not their spirits as they cheered the muddy Hornet gridmen on to an important victory over county rival, North Central.

gridmen to best record in Howe history

Boasting its best grid season in history, the Hornet team under the coaching of Richard Guyer began the first of many long, hard practices in mid-August. Lengthy workouts and skull practices helped the Hornets build their strength and fighting spirit. The profits of these sessions coupled with the power of nine returning lettermen enabled the Howe gridmen to finish the 1959 football season with only one loss.

Following only a fair showing at the City Football Jamboree and unimpressive pre-season forecasts, the gridiron men began regular play by defeating eastside rival Tech. After a scoreless first half, the Howe team came back to score twice in each remaining quarter and to crush Tech by a 19-point margin.

The Attacks Tigers and 1958 State Champions, Manual Redskins, were next to bow to a superior Hornet squad. Seatback Darlan Billups, who scored three touchdowns, led the Howe eleven on to trample Noblesville. Quarterback Jim Hower made the first of two second-quarter touchdowns against Noblesville and Mansfield Lambirth later plunged over the three-yard line and added six more points to the Hornet score. The nearly impregnable Howe line, strengthened with an increasing will to win, contributed to Hornet victories over both Broad Ripple and Madison Heights of Anderson.

Howe's homecoming game, highlight of the season, took place on a cold, rainy night at the Tech field when the Howeites met North Central's Panthers. The muddy field handicapped the players and it was nearly impossible for either team to gain any yardage or to catch the slippery pigskin. Because the Howe gridmen did not play up to their usual standard, the team trailed by fourteen points at the half.

Sherri and her court, Barbara Leonard, Margo Nordman, Diane Archer, Dian Covert, and Pam Butler suffer from the severe rain and cold which prevailed over the Howe-North Central game.

Queen Sherri Bell reigns over cold, wet

After abbreviated Homecoming ceremonies, an inspired Brown and Gold came back to put the only scratch on North Central's perfect record.

Following an easy win over the Warren Warriors, the Hornets suffered their only defeat at the hands of a powerful and swift Washington. Howe's gridsters ended their season by smashing the Secina Crusaders 39-13.

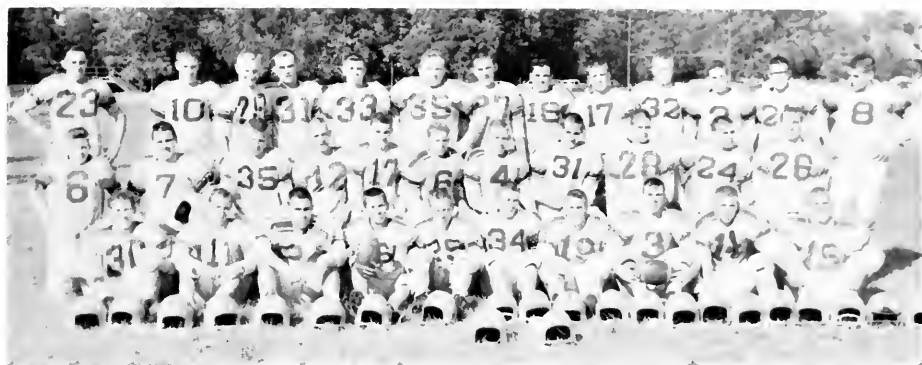

Ron Lewellen, senior tackle, was named a member of both the All-State and All-City High School football teams. Teammate Billups was also selected for the All-City and became city-county scoring champ.

At the athletic awards assembly Dick Harpold and Billups were announced as co-captains; Dave Hockett received the Best Mental Attitude Award; Billups received the award for most valuable player. All members of this Hornet team won major letters and many of the team also received white letter sweaters.

With twelve returning lettermen and additions from Coach Harrison Richardson's reserve team, next year's squad has a good potential. The reserve team finished their season with a 3-3-1 record. The freshmen, under Head Coach Lyman Combs, chalked up a 1-4-1 season.

Mansfield Lambirth, a member of Howe's strong backfield, runs downfield from his opponents toward the Hornet goal. Lambirth is one of twelve junior lettermen who will return to strengthen the team next fall.

Taking eighth place in their own 19th annual Invitational Cross Country Meet, the varsity harriers, under Coach Rex Anderson, put together a .500 season. Four returning lettermen and three outstanding sophomore runners added to the strength of the 1959 squad.

Washington surpassed Howe by one point in the opening meet of the season; but, seeking revenge, the harriers crushed Lawrence Central in their second meet. At the Shortridge Invitational Meet, Hornet Ken Huff finished eleventh in a field of more than 300 runners. He was third of over 200 entrants in the Sectionals and placed 22nd in the State Meet.

The reserve team lost only two of six meets, while the freshmen defeated Manual and lost to Broad Ripple on their limited schedule.

In the Howe Invitational Howe runner Ken Huff, winner of the Ray Bowman Cross Country Award, placed second.

Matmen sport ten wins, four losses

Under the fine coaching of Mr. Raymond Moon and Mr. Denny Krick, Howe's matmen racked up their third wrestling season, bettering the record of previous years by turning in a total of ten wins and only four losses.

Although the Hornets began with four straight wins, Howe had a rough schedule this year. They defeated the county champions, North Central, but lost to the city champs, Broad Ripple, by four points.

Senior returning letterman Ron Lewellen represented Howe in the heavyweight division of the State Wrestling Meet after pinning the defending state champion in the sectionals.

The reserve grapplers had a .500 season record of seven wins and seven losses.

With a nucleus of four returning lettermen for the 1959-60 season, Coach Jim Stutz and his Hornets posted a record of five wins and sixteen losses. The Brown and Gold achieved a better record than had been earned in the previous two seasons. High scoring John Townsend, Mike Matthews, Dick Harpold and Steve Fuson led the Howe Hornets to triumphs over Lawrence Central, Shelbyville, Ben Davis and Lebanon. after a slow start in the season.

In the city tourney competition at Butler Field-house, the underrated Hornets picked up their fifth win by an upset defeat of a strong Shortridge team in the first round of play. The next day the Hornets bowed to the emerging city champions, Tech.

The varsity basketball team had a rough schedule, and lost eight games by five points or less to teams with much better records than that of the Brown and Gold.

During the half time of the Shelbyville game, which Howe won, Susie Schmidt, senior, was crowned basketball queen by Steve Switzer.

John Townsend, number 32, and Steve Bruner, number 11, stand ready to assist teammate Dennis Cuppy keep the ball from the grasp of a Southport player.

In the exciting Columbus game which Howe lost by three points, Steve Fuson, captain of the varsity squad, vies for the ball in a jump with number 43 of Columbus.

Howe netmen have a rough schedule

The Howe Hornets drew the Beech Grove Hornets for the first night of sectional competition at the Southport Fieldhouse. With two seconds of playing time left, the game stood with the score 53 for Howe and 52 for Beech Grove. The Beech Grove Hornets made a frantic attempt for a basket and as the final buzzer sounded, the ball was on its way to the basket to make the winning point for Beech Grove and eliminate Howe from further sectional play.

The Men's 400 Club award for the Most Valuable Player went to letterman John Townsend, who also received the free throw award. Guard Dick Harpold received the Best Mental Attitude Award presented by the Kiwanis Club. Steve Fuson was elected captain by his team mates.

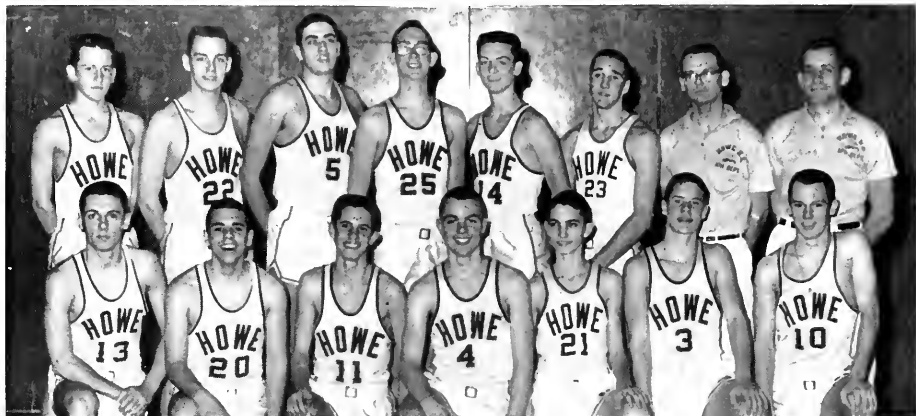

The Howe reserve squad under the coaching of Mr. Steve Vencel also had a slow start and finished the season with two wins. Coach Roger Schroder's freshman roundballers boasted a season record of nine wins against six losses. Mr. Justin Rehm assisted with the frosh team.

New school record and three state

Ken Huff, letter-winning Hornet runner pushes himself to stay ahead in the City Track Meet.

Winning six of eight dual cinder clashes, and with Glenn Pride and Steve Shackle setting new records, the Hornets lived up to Coach Rex Anderson's expectations to have another winning season.

New school records were set in 1959 by senior lettermen Shackle and Pride. Shackle poured on the steam to set two Howe records in the 100- and 220-yard dashes with times of 10.0 and 22.3 respectively. Not to be outdone, Pride skimmed the high hurdles in 15.1 seconds to set another record.

The Hornets placed third in the City Meet at Tech and later at the Sectional Meet, three Howe spikesters qualified for the State Meet. Mike Matthews qualified in the high jump, along with sectional-record-setting Shackle and Pride. In the State Meet Shackle finished first in the hundred-yard dash, and Pride placed fifth in the high hurdles.

The reserve team had an excellent season, boasting an undefeated record. The freshman team also had a winning season with a record of seven wins and one loss.

Sue Crossland, Hoosier Relays Queen, admires the medal of the Howe Track Queen Linda Daniels. Starting with three teams in 1948, the Hoosier Relays have grown until last year they consisted of over sixty schools and over one thousand athletes. Sponsored by Howe, the Relays are held at the Indiana University Fieldhouse, and are the largest indoor track meet in the country.

Glenn Pride strains to clear the last hurdle in the City Meet at Tech. Representing Howe in the State Meet, Glenn placed fifth.

A familiar sight on the Howe track throughout the spring was runner Steve Shackle who placed first in the State Meet hundred yard dash.

Cheerleaders support Hornets' morale

"Go you Hornets and beat that foe!" This is the chant that was heard by everyone at football and basketball games. In any school the cheerleaders are half the spirit of the student body and our three peppy squads backed the varsity, reserve, and freshman teams to the limit. This year the cheerleaders managed to organize the biggest boys' and girls' cheerblocks in Howe's history, besides planning several pep assemblies. They worked hard preparing the pre-sectional assembly skit and sportsmanship peptalk. Dave Wright, student council member from Washington High School, spoke and the 1960 sportsmanship slogan, "It's ball time in the Hoosier state; make sportsmanship the Hoosier trait!" hung over the stage.

Just like the athletic teams, the cheerleaders have to practice. Every Wednesday they come faithfully to 227 or the girls' gym to practice the new yells that win such enthusiasm from the spectators.

Under the direction of Miss Janice Brown, the new gym teacher and Howe graduate, all three squads had a very successful season.

Varsity Tennis Team

Coach Combs, Banta, Guidone, Beswick, Nonweiler, Thompson.

Preparing to leave for a match Ronnie Banta and George Nonweiler discuss the team strategy.

In its fifth year of competition with other schools, this year's tennis team ended the season boasting a 7 win-5 loss record. Victories over Attucks, Shortridge, Broad Ripple, Ben Davis, North Central, and Southport highlighted the 1959 season. Three returning lettermen added power to the team. One of these, George Nonweiler, represented Howe in the city competition and placed first in the singles. Practice sessions were held at Ellenberger Park Tennis Courts under the direction of Mr. Lyman Combs.

Howe's 1959 linksmen sported seven wins against eight losses. Victories over Lawrence Central, Wood, Sacred Heart, Tech, Shortridge, Attucks and Manual highlighted this year's season. The Brown and Gold team finished fourteenth in the Regional Meet held at Riverside Park Golf Course and placed nineteenth in the City Golf Meet. Coach Fred Lemley worked with a team composed mostly of underclassmen, as they held their practice sessions at Pleasant Run Golf Course.

Linksmen David Smartz watches and listens to advice given by Brown and Gold golf medalist Jim Birk.

Jim Birk, returning from the 1958 golf squad, was captain of the Hornet linksmen. He was entered in the Regional Meet, winning a medal for the Brown and Gold with a score of 76.

VARSITY BASEBALL TEAM

Coach Pierson, Yeskie, Bruner, Spears, Davis, Whiteman, Kirk, Harpold.

Off to a slow start in baseball, the Hornets came through in their last four games to end the 1959 season with eight wins and five losses. Torrents of spring rain which forced the cancellation of three games, also created delays for many of the practice sessions.

The four straight wins started with the Warren Central game in which two fine catches by John Buckley in the last innings stopped the Warren rally. Again the last inning proved the turning point in the Lawrence game which followed a Howe victory over Attucks. The game with Manual ended the season in another triumph.

Mike Justus, one of five returning lettermen, was elected captain. Don Marshall earned the Most Valuable Player award and Dick Harpold received the Best Mental Attitude award.

Mr. Roscoe Pierson, varsity coach, will have good players coming up from Coach Denby Krick's reserve team which won three and lost six. The freshman nine won only one of seven games. Their coach is Mr. Harrison Richardson.

G A A and Lettermen provide fun

LETTERMEN'S CLUB and GAA are designed for students interested in athletics. A member of Lettermen's Club must have earned at least one major letter in one of Howe's many sports. Members serve the school by parking cars and ushering at basketball games. Also during the basketball season, those boys who don't play participate in the boys' cheer block. Mr. Lyman Combs is the sponsor of the club.

GAA, or the Girls' Athletic Association, presents a variety of sports for the girls to participate in. When the weather permits, such outdoor sports as speedball, softball and track and field events are popular. Indoors, volleyball, basketball and apparatus work are favorites. A gym meet was scheduled during February and prizes were awarded for superior work on the apparatus and in folk dancing.

GAA and Lettermen jointly sponsor the Winter Wonderland Dance on the afternoon of the last day before Christmas vacation.

GAA Girls also took part in the gym meet sponsored by the physical education department in April. About fifty girls showed their top form in work on the parallel bars and side horse. Entrants were judged on coordination, consisting of beauty of movement; continuity, and degree of difficulty in the stunt they chose. First through fourth place ribbons were presented.

Teachers and new administrators work

Mr. Thomas Stirling, filling the vacancy created by the retirement of principal Charles M. Sharp, quickly gets into the busy routine of supervising Howe. Mr. Stirling admits that co-ordinating almost two thousand pupils with a one hundred-member faculty is a difficult but rewarding job.

Through the patient guidance of the faculty and administration, Howeites find it easier to proceed "with our best foot forward." Teachers take an active part in sponsoring extra-curricular activities, counseling students, or finding ways to improve their teaching techniques. Some of the Howe faculty have studied abroad in France, Spain, Mexico, Cuba, England, and Italy where they gained further insight in their particular field.

At the head of the administration is Principal Thomas Stirling who replaced Charles M. Sharp as Howe's second principal. Mr. Stirling, vitally interested in the advancement of Howeites and their school, advocates several programs for "pursuit of excellence."

In addition to the teaching staff, Howe is aided by another group, office workers, who perform many valuable services such as taking care of the switchboard, attendance and guidance cards, student registry, and innumerable records.

"Take five" is a welcome sound to the ears of these tired Howeites. They have been going through night after night of long, grueling rehearsals in preparation for the annual Pleasant Run Revue. This popular yearly activity gives students who are willing to work hard a chance for a touch of show business and a lot of fun.

"Faculty Fatmen" compete against seniors

Coach Rehm calls Jim Stutz into the Faculty Fatmen huddle. Faculty members and seniors donned their wildest outfits to compete for the Howe basketball (?) championship.

Faculty Queen, Miss Thea Phelps, and King for the second year standing, Richard Guyer, pose for a moment to flash the personality smiles that helped them win their royal titles.

Red-hot seniors seem confident as they prepare to face the mighty Faculty Fatmen. The wide variety of costumes displays the imagination and artistic abilities of the senior team.

Leading the yells for the seniors and cheering them on to victory were varsity cheerleader Joy Tillery and varsity left end Ron Guidone. Seniors beat the faculty 53-45 in a "wild" game.

As the last minutes of their senior year slip quickly away, the class of 1960 stands listening to Pomp and Circumstance. They wait tensely for the words that will begin their final walk down Violet Hill and usher them into a new life.

Seniors climax four years' work with

Karmen Lamb and Diana Sims examine this year's senior colors which were beige, mint green, and yellow-gold. They were symbolic of the standards of the class.

"Togetherness" plays an important role in every senior's life, especially in senior homeroom where jovial graduates-to-be come charging in full of pep.

In addition to daily routines the 1960 senior class had many special activities which required their attention. Two special days when the class members arrived in party dresses and suits for their parties and the presentation of senior colors were just two. Among class privileges were special assembly seats and home room in the cafeteria, both of which were characterized by a never-to-be-forgotten mad scramble to beat the tardy bell. Seniors also had responsibilities to fulfill: attending committee meetings, ordering name cards and announcements, and being fitted for caps and gowns. The senior office was headquarters for college bulletins, applications, and scholarship information as well as job information. The class of '60 will remember its almost all-senior football and basketball teams, class meeting, the senior-faculty game, vespers, commencement, and the prom. The class' last year was filled with fun, hard work, and the realization that the end of four years' work was close at hand.

commencement

(Middle picture) An important part of being seniors is ordering name cards and announcements. Seniors Cathy Dudley and Janet Cardwell pick their own special name cards from the order book. This years' commencement announcements featured a line drawing of the entire building and a larger Howe crest.

(Bottom picture) Mr. Landis of the Harry K. Landis Company measures Judy Badger for her cap and gown while Mary Jo Bristow and Sharon Carney wait their turns. Howe's girl seniors wear powder blue robes and the boys wear white robes; officers are distinguishable because of the gold tassel on their caps. The robes were designed exclusively for Howe.

The senior play cast spent spring vacation and three more weeks rehearsing for this year's senior play; "You Can't Take It with You." The four weeks of rehearsing, under the direction of Mr. Bruce Beck, were filled with fun, laughter, and many hours of old-fashioned hard work. Many days were spent in memorizing lines and learning proper cues and gestures; and then still more time in polishing them.

"You Can't Take It With You" centers around the Sycamore family. The Sycamore household includes an iceman who moved in to live; a "Mad Russian" dancing teacher; and the grandfather who doesn't believe in the income tax. The presence of a printing press and a fireworks factory in the basement add to the fun.

The story revolves around Alice Sycamore and her fiancé, Tony Kirby. When Tony's staid parents arrive for dinner on the wrong night they are shocked and appalled by their future daughter-in-law's zany family. Alice also is convinced that she and Tony should call off their wedding plans despite their love. Everything ends on a happy note as Mr. Kirby defects to the Sycamores and Alice and Tony proceed with their plans.

Seniors shine

(Top picture) Alice Sycamore (Emily Cronau) welcomes her fiancé, Tony Kirby (Ken Huff), and his parents (Renee Wise and Bill O'Connell) as they arrive for dinner —on the wrong night! Tony switched the dates so that his parents might see the Sycamores as they really were, not as they would be when they were prepared for important guests.

(Second picture) Penny Sycamore (Klaska Haugh) paints her version of "The Discus Thrower" using the used-to-be iceman, Mr. De Pimma (Gary Paternoster) as a model. At the same time Boris Kolenkhov (Frank Alger) gives "His little Pavlova," Essie Carmichael (Marilyn Propps), her ballet lesson.

(Third picture) The mad Russian, Boris Kolenkhov introduces his friend, The Duchess (Laurie Scholl), to Penny Sycamore. The Duchess, a member of Russian nobility, whose cousin was the Czar of Russia until the Revolution in 1917, is now reduced to working as a waitress in Child's restaurant.

The senior play cast gathers en masse for the dinner scene in which Grandpa invokes a blessing upon the Sycamores, their guests and friends. Cast members are (clockwise standing) G-Men (Bob Stoppenhagen and Ken McCoy), Grandpa (Dan Graves), G-Man (Dave Mabey), Rheba (Diane Hawke); (clockwise seated) Penny Sycamore (Klaska Haugh), Paul Sycamore (Bob Morton), Gay Wellington (Jane Carson), Donald (Miles Hession), Boris Kolenkhov (Frank Alger), Mr. Kirby (Bill O'Connell), Mrs. Kirby (Renee Wise), Tony Kirby (Ken Huff), Henderson (Bob Briles), Duchess (Laurie Scholl), Alice (Emily Cronau), Mr. De Pinna (Gary Paternoster), Essie (Marilu Propps), Ed (Stanley Keeler).

From our freshman year we have looked forward to the day when we would be seniors. We took the first step toward being seniors in the middle of our junior year when we ordered class rings. Before we were ready, September of '59 had arrived and we were the senior class. With the advent of class elections, senior day, and our daily routines we became accustomed to our new position. Things began to move fast as the Senior Play, Vespers, and Commencement rolled by. Suddenly our senior year has ended. For some of us this means further education in college; for others it begins the application of what we have learned at Howe. Our education and background at Howe has provided us with a firm foundation on which to build our lives and futures.

Class officers Mike McDonald, Nita Gammons, Deanna Callahan, Ed Diehl, and Lydia Hildreth, aided by Mr. Ralph Clevenger, class sponsor, arrange committees for senior activities. They strove to place each class member on at least one committee.

Graduation marks the end of the school year. For seniors graduation symbolizes the end of one phase of life and the beginning of another. This year 430 Howe students receiving their diplomas are prepared to step into the world with their best foot forward.

With the close of the year, all of us view our achievements and our hopes. We have put our best foot forward in school work, activities, sports, and in just being teenagers. We have struggled with serious, often difficult situations, and we have enjoyed carefree moments. Each of us can realize that we have profited by this year's experiences at Howe High School as we leave school once more . . .

Carole —
 To a girl with a real winning personality,
 I'm glad I got to know you
 in speech & psychology

Carol,

A real cute gal with a wonderful personality to match. I would like to get to know you better. Lots of luck in everything you do. & with love. Love you.

Love you

Carol

Carol,

I guess you are a great cutie girl. We meet in a "John"! (How do I know? - Skiss?) We've had something about the water. Please the water. I hope next year will be just as much fun. Best of luck, and "lots of luck" to one wonderful girl. "61"

Carol,
A cute girl with warm personality.
May you always walk in happiness,
D.D. Dad bless you,
Diana Huber

Carol,

It's been wonderful getting to know you better. I hope next year will be even better. I know you well enough to know you have a real good personality and give you a great hug. Margaret

Carol,
A snuggly-looking girl who knows exactly what I hope to know about you in whatever you do, as that's what I've been following you.

Carole - To the sweetest, prettiest, kindest and most wonderful girl in the world. Being in love with you these few short months has been the most wonderful and rewarding thing that ever happened to me. I can't find any means by which I am worthy of such a lovely and lovable (and loved) girl as you. You've given me new insights on the meaning of the word "love", even during this short time, and I plan to keep on learning about you and our love for a long time to come. I wish we were both just now going into our last year so I could meet you in the morning, get in trouble for daylight deficiencies, and do the hundreds of other things that have made my <sup>last</sup> days at school a joyful memory and a period of bliss. How much I'll miss you this next year, only you can know. As long as you keep those mischievous blue eyes twinkling and that sunshine smile beaming, everything in the world will go all right for me and for us. I can only say that I think you're absolutely everything anyone could ever desire in someone else. I hope that our love matures and grows with us through the years to come.

With all the love, admiration, and respect in the world,

John

Carol,
 I've really enjoyed knowing you. Best wishes through your senior year.
 Best of luck
